Journey To Mars — Aerospace Bristol

Why ISO Standards Matter.

This ISO workshop is designed to highlight why standards like ISO 9001, ISO 45001 and ISO 14001 matter. When it comes to quality, safety, reliability and sustainability, you need to know that your people have the skills to perform, that your equipment doesn't fail, and your environmental impacts are minimised.

Ian Fielding AIOSH tec MIIRSM , NDC Certification Services and systems lead auditor, will explain how ISO standards can help drive performance and highlight how organisation with remote workers and safety critical assets can prepare for systems integration and third party audits.

We'll will show you how to audit against key clauses of ISO standards, we'll highlight the benefits of adopting a UKAS and non UKAS certification provider and show you how to save time and money by using the latest compliance software.

This is the first in a series of short workshops that are designed to help those who are new to ISO standards and auditing within an organisation.

Who should attend?

This event is aimed at those who are involved in the internal audit process and responsible for quality, health & safety and environmental compliance.
